

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : A tale of two streams...

Re: A tale of two streams...

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2013/9/9 8:06:51

URL:

Quote:

k-bob wrote:

I personally don't fish for stockies, fish w/o barbs, and have never kept a trout. But I see an irony here... people sometimes want science based trout management... until they don't like what the science says :)

there are so many miles of low pressure unstocked trout water in PA that I think the state deserves credit for current mgt practices.

True above. Many give back, or at least put back, and do not take...like you. Is it a bad thing to try to get the word out and teach others to do the same?

I talk to dozens of anglers on the stream every season that have no clue that the trout they catch, or sometimes have on their stringer are wild, streamborn trout. Don't underestimate the amount of anglers that believe all trout they catch come in big white trucks.