True. Reels are meant to be fished, even the purdy ones. Reel makers KNOW what fly fishermen do to their reels. This reminds me of Johnny Cash. He said he couldn't stand when people treated a guitar like a baby. He thought it was an instrument that should be used like an instrument. Look at Willie Nelson's guitar, man. It's got a freaking hole in the side and has masking tape on it. I'm not saying to beat the shart out of the reel, but you can't fear what COULD happen to the reel if you use it. If the reel had a soul (this is really lame haha!), I bet it'd prefer to go out of this world being used rather than be preserved on a book case for who knows how long.

I believe the instructions that came with the reel were, "put it to use".
