I wish I could take credit for them. I just catch them and even that, I have little control over which ones I catch. That being said, they are majestic!

Yesterdays trip was great. I walked downstream for an hour enjoying a fine cigar at daylight. I worked my way upstream over the next 7 1/2 hours. The cool water on my feet made the heat of the 90 degree day disappear. I stopped along the way and enjoyed a nice lunch and another smoke. I did not see another person the entire time. It was peaceful. It was tranquil. Reality set in when I hit the office door this morning.
