

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Floating the Driftwood Branch

Re: Floating the Driftwood Branch

Author: : troutbert

Date: : 2013/9/12 10:43:07

URL:

So you are talking about Sinnemahoning Creek, not the Driftwood Branch.

According to Keystone Canoeing by Edward Gertler, the gauge at Sinnemahoning should be over 3.3 feet to canoe Sinnemahoning Creek.

There is rain forecast for the area today. So watch the gauges. If there is a good shot of rain, plan to be there tomorrow morning at daybreak.

Because these streams are flashy this time of year. They go up fast after a good rain, but also drop quickly.