First, Thank you for your service to our country.

I would strongly consider using a black or green woolly bugger on those streams at that time of year. Woolly buggers are an excellent choice too for beginners because much like a trout spinner you're going to basically quarter your cast down and across and then using short strips work the fly back to you through the current. A strip-strip-pause action is a good way to find fish.

Other flies to have would include a few #14 & #16 elkhair caddis and BWOs in sizes 16-18. Hare's ear and Pheasant tail nymphs as well. Egg patterns should work as well.
