Funny. Cows sometimes seem curious about fishermen.

Dc410 and I used to fish Falling Springs a good bit back in the day (mid 80's) and I'll never forget a day some years later when I was there by myself. This occurred in Skelly's farmyard by the fallen sycamore (old time FS guys know this spot - it's posted today) when some cows started chewing on my landing net, which was hanging on my back, while I was fighting a very large trout. I soon lost my balance and did a perfect nose dive headfirst into the creek. As I was struggling to get out of the water and completely soaked, the cows all walked up to the edge and were watching me with apparent fascination.....and probably thinking, "who's this idiot going for a swim?" Anyway, I somehow managed to land the fish which turned out to be foul hooked anyway. The cows had some fun and seemed to genuinely enjoy the comedy act. 🤪
