This post brings back a memory for my first springer's first pheasant hunt in 1978. He flushed a cock which I only managed to wound. He went over the hill into some brush to try to make the retrieve. After about 5 minutes waiting for him to return, I climbed the hill to find him holding the bird in his mouth surrounded by about a dozen young Holstein steers. He didn't know how to get out of the gauntlet, but was not giving up his first pheasant.
