Hey no worries, I figured steers were all cattle too.

And obviously, if you see a beast with a ring through its nose it's always a bull, even if it ain't black but is a pretty tan or palomino. Another give away is its on it's own in a big field.

I've had to walk the long way round to car a few times when the farmers moved them to another field during the fishing day.

I've had bulls move me to another field when farmers didn't move them to another field. Also interesting to be fishing down in a stream with high banks and have a bull show up on the bank above you..
