

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : September's wild trout

Re: September's wild trout

Author: : boychick

Date: : 2013/9/17 8:45:19

URL:

Good write up and great pics. It looks like you had a wonderful outing. Thanks for sharing.

As for the dry dropper, I use the dry and if it's a bit slow on top I add a dropper and see how that changes things. Pay attention, listen to what the fish are telling you, and then adjust accordingly.

With regard to the "cold season" scenario, I think Troutbert said it well Quote:

It's now fall and it's getting pretty cool overnight. And warmer in the afternoon, so the fish are more active then.

I've noticed that this is true with late fall, winter and early spring steelhead too. A few degrees in water temperature makes a big difference in the fish activity, as the water warms a bit the fishing "turns on."