

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : September's wild trout

Re: September's wild trout

Author: : The_Sasquatch

Date: : 2013/9/17 11:52:54

URL:

I fished this stream last night (I think...I'm pretty sure!). I tied a dropper off my fly. I put a little red bloodworm type thing on. I confess my reasons for doing this is I'm obsessed w/ getting a trifecta on the stream. The rainbows (stocked or possibly wild) are extremely rare at this point in the year (you can do this easily in April or May with stocked bows), but I thought my best bet of catching a bow would be off a dropper.

No bows, but I caught the most buttered up brownies I've seen this year so far. The Fall is definitely upon us! All the brookies I caught on top, all the browns, except for one, were taken on the dropper. I haven't noticed the brookies changing much as far as color but the browns are definitely getting that buttery goodness to them.