Buy. May get into it someday but I've gone 35 years fly fishing without doing it and with other hobbies I just haven't the time. I know there is that aspect of the hobby of catching a fish on something you built yourself and all that and that is pretty cool. But here back 5/6 years ago I bought 1500 assorted flies and pick up a few now and then but for my $ investment in bugs... I fish when I have the time and do other hobbies I enjoy. I never built a bass spinner or a red devil or any other type of lure when I was spin'n or bait cast'n for stuff. Like I said, I may get into it one day. It'll give me something to do when the solar flux is down and the propagation is bad on the HF bands I guess.
