I am more like Sasquatch-- I tie and supplement with purchases. I usually have enough of my own ties and old purchases to cover my expected fishing for the next month or so, but if I have a trip coming up where I expect to use and need a good number of flies that I cannot find the time to tie myself, I will place an order or pick up at the destination to cover my expected needs.

There are a couple places I like to stop and pick up a dozen or two of flies just to throw some money to the local flyshop, and make sure I have locally "approved" patterns on hand.
