I'm pretty much the same as squatch too. I tie the easy stuff that i know i will use a lot of. I used to tie more, but i found myself buying $50 worth of material, to tie 3 flies that sit in the box for 10 years, and no matter how much material you acquire you never seem to have everything you need. i just enjoy the fishing much more than the tying anyway, so i try to focus my efforts on that part. I definitely can admire some of the awesome work guys do and understand how you can really get into and enjoy tying. to each their own.
