From what I hear from friends, it's a little more than a few fish. But it could be them just enticing me to come up and drink

It does not take much rain to bump some fish into the lower Elk or even up to the project waters on Walnut. Even if there are 200 fish on Walnut right now, the water is low and clear. The fish are swimming in circles in Manchester hole and 17 guys are standing around the hole yanking as hard as they can to "hook" a fish. Lower Elk is essentially the same way right now. Don't waste your time. The rains will come and the fish will run. When that happens, it will be on.
