

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : tea creek

Re: tea creek

Author: : The_Sasquatch

Date: : 2013/9/19 10:09:21

URL:

Upstream for sure, and if memory serves, I did not wade at all. This was at the "Jam" 2 years ago. The stretch we fished was kind of a clearing, like a meadow? The caddis was my indicator. My scud was just your basic olive scud. I didn't put any split shot or anything like that on, though the scud may have had a bead head. Basically a size 14 elk hair caddis, about 12"-15" of tippet tied off the bend of the caddis hook, olive scud. Cast upstream like you would normally present a dry fly, and feel free to skate that caddis around too. Scuds swim, so having some movement in the water can bring on a strike.