Wow - thank you, JeffK! That's extremely cool info. If it's anywhere near as old as that, I'm incredibly taken by how well it has stood the test of time. I was curious if this was a Lucky Strike model because all of the other example with similar model numbers were, but I could never find one that was an exact match identified as such.

Also, I attached a couple more pics of the rod taken from a wider angle along with a closeup of one of the guides. The hardware appears very much intact.
