

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : PennypackFlyer

Date: : 2013/9/21 7:49:28

URL:

I don't have any problems with knots catching anything. The problem that I do encounter quite often is the hooks not catching what I want. Thus spinning and creating line tangle from time to time.

I thought about using a swivel somewhere along the line - however I believe that this would change the dynamics of the cast too great. maybe one of those new plastic light weight ones.

I have seen TV shows where salmon are taken by bears from flyfisher lines. Talking about scary. Not something I would like to encounter.