A while ago I posted about if it was possible to stay the night n your car on state forest land. I was going to stay a night and fish the next day before I met up for a weekend at my buddies cabin. Well that trip fell through, but I kept that day scheduled off, and my Pops and I will be heading up to Hyner Run State Park for a few days this coming weekend (sept 27-29). We'll be fishing Clinton and potter counties. My question is, anyone see any spawners yet up there? I'd love to hit some fall brookies, but I don't want to fish over trout in full blow spawning mode. Just trying to plan out a little bit if I should focus mainly for brownies, or if brookies are still an option. Thanks in advance.
