Thanks for the feedback everyone.

Yeah, I was wondering about the flows, too. Hoping that some of the water from this past weekend will still be in some of the larger creeks later this week. Was hoping to hit some of the tribs of Young Woman's, but that is looking mighty low from the USGS graph.

Yes, YWC looks low.

It looks like the northern part of the region got more rain than the southern part, so if you want better stream flows, go further north than YWC.
