Not knowing the 1495, my limited research indicated the 1494 to be slightly smaller than the 1495.

It is.

Should you need more weight (you will), there's a few options. Without spending any money, you can remove the hub cover off the front of the spool and put leadshot at batting inside, or wrap weight around the spool under the backing, either lead tape or leadcore trolling line (which takes up an inordinate amount of space).

If you're still having problems, a 1594RC spool will stick right on, giving you again about an extra ounce in palming rim.
