

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : big brown in a small freestone

Re: big brown in a small freestone

Author: : evw659

Date: : 2013/9/24 13:51:53

URL:

thanks for the comments guys. fishing during a rain is definetly a good idea. However, fishing this hole with a nymph would be pretty tough. you can only fish the lower end really, and theres no current in the lower end. im gonna tie a couple big articulated streamers and fish em the next time conditions are good. ill run it along parallel to the log and try to get him to come out. I dont think 3x would work, honestly. this fish is gonna go straight for the cover under the log, and im gonna have to be able to keep him out of there if i manage to hook him. he's real big, probably 5 pounds conservatively. ill post a pic if i get him. probably won't be anytime in the immediate future as not much rain is in the forecast.