

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : A great idea , wish Pennsylvania would adopt

Re: A great idea , wish Pennsylvania would adopt

Author: : albud1962

Date: : 2013/9/24 15:30:08

URL:

I don't think it meets the strict definition of a bridge as there is still an embankment and no abutments are present. The concrete sections are similar as you would find in a box culvert. The main differences from a box culvert is the elongated span. They can be made to look like a bridge but its really not.