Paul Dixon has been putting Conway Bowman on 40" stripers all week. Have anchovy flies and white deceivers and maybe a sparse, long Clouser. Put a little orange or gold in these ties. And go where the people ain't. Just about every day, fish pop up in almost every acre of water-so find a good spot and be patient. You don't want to deal with the conventional fishermen if you don't have to. And maybe watch the boats-if they are doing well just offshore of a spot with fewer fishermen on shore, go there and wait. And blind cast.
