Not to get all Sunfish snobby, but I'm pretty certain sg's "purple" Sunfish in the OP of this thread is 100% Bluegill. Some of them just have a more blue or purple tone to them. Not sure what you'd mix with a Bluegill to get it to look like that one. Greens and Pumpkinseeds mixed with BG produce a much more spotted/checkered pattern on the resulting hybrid offspring. Pretty sure there aren't Redbreasts in that watershed either (and Redbreasts don't usually do very well in small impoundments).
