

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : IdratherbePhishing

Date: : 2013/9/27 14:32:43

URL:

Absolutely not. For self grat sure. For about 5 years I used one straight piece of 5x tippet. However long you want it. And ill be straight honest I've only had more problems when making my own. More knots more break offs. People say well that makes no sense and doesn't seem "ethical." If you can cast a leader and not turnover a straight piece of tippet you can't cast. Easiest way to get ready and setup too. Sure ya use more tipp. But everyone has their way. I was never lucky enough to have anyone teach me. I am self taught fly fishermen.