Alby,

There's always golf!.....just kidding.

On the high side right now, but okay level for floating. If it holds, wading will be out on the WB and MS for the most part.

A flow change such as this usually puts fish down for a day or two, but good that it happened 4 or 5 days before your trip. Also good that this time of year, the flow increase does not come with a temp drastic temp change either way. In fact the temp range is ideal at the HE guage (50-57*).

The worst cast scenario would be if the res turn-over happened while you guys were up there.

Keep an eye on the flow and the reports.

Hey, if I weren't working, I'd be right there with you guys.

Take whatever comes.....and enjoy!
