

---

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : lv2nymph

Date: : 2013/9/29 18:28:46

URL:

You are correct they are not arrow straight, "barely". That being the only downside when comparing these two knots I'll take the one I've been using a long time without issues. But I can see where a certain number of people would have an issue with what you have brought up. Like a lot of things in fly fishing everyone has their tried and true way of going about things. Just wanted to give someone new to making leaders a good, fast way to make a leader, and or repair a leader with time running out quickly in fading light. Honestly with fish rising (you have a hot pattern) and 15 minutes of light left and you have to put two knots in your tippet to be back fishing which two knots would you want to tie? It's an honest question please do not take this as a punch. Jack.