

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : A great idea , wish Pennsylvania would adopt

Re: A great idea , wish Pennsylvania would adopt

Author: : FarmerDave

Date: : 2013/9/30 8:10:17

URL:

Quote:

troutbert wrote:

I'm asking for specific locations that people have seen that need work, i.e. XXXXX Run, where XXXXX Road crosses it.

Why? Are you writing a book?

Here's one

I know you want specifics, but rather than spot burning, I figured I would offer some even more helpful information. At least it should have been helpful to anyone willing to look around and not requiring a spoon.

They are literally everywhere, and anyone who actually has fished for trout has likely seen them. But then, seeing them and noticing them are two different things.

These are typically on very small streams and I'm not spot burning them.

Next time you are driving on a back road and you hit a bump caused by a culvert pipe heaving (frost), stop and look at the outflow of that pipe. That is as specific as I will get.

P.S. That is not my farm. Mine's prettier.