Big Spring Rainbows being killed

This morning I have come across a report that anglers are tossing the wild rainbows of Big Spring on the bank and leaving them to die to help the 2nd most abundant fish of big spring, the brook trout. I know it's an issue that's been around for a while, but this for me draws the line. I wanted to post this to inform anglers of this happening. I know a few have previously questioned my posts on proper fish handling, but these types of actions from anglers is why I do.
