It as Mike and myself on the water for most of the morning. This was Mike's third trip with me this year. We did anther 1/2 day finishing up around 1pm. We had the stream mostly to ourselves until I did a little stream tour and found three anglers at the ditch. One of them was a past guy I had giuded years ago, anther was his friend and then a very good skilled angler from the area. We all got to talking and found out that some fly anglers are noe tossing the small rainbows on the banks as they catch them. Like the rainbows of not that should not be done. That is a shame that someone is telling people do do this. Anyway, Mike and I had a real good morning. Mike was getting use to a short and soft rod still and he missed around seven. I too missed two with this rod. We ended up landing threee rainbows. It was a fine day once again with Mike.

If someone is doing this, it's not safe to assume that someone else is telling him to do it.

It's more likely they decided to do that on their own.
