Big Bass,

We have found a manufacturer we are very proud of and want to keep on the quiet. We know most companies are on browsing these forums so I can only reveal as little information as possible about the production process. I will double check for you.

The tip is a bit faster than old school medium action rods but the rod bends as much as you want it to in the mid and butt. Compared to the Warrior it is far more of a medium action fly rod. I love casting it, it has a super crisp feel and bends as far as you want it to. Still has a good amount of power but is definitely not a fast action rod.

The rods came in at the end of trout season and I was lucky enough to dry fly fish a few days with it. What a treat!
