This dam might have been too small to worry much about it. I dunno, I'll leave it to those more familiar with it than I.

But yeah, taking out a dam can ruin a stream downstream. Yeah, it's sediment that would have come down anyway, and just "paused", and will eventually get carried away. But "eventually" can be as long as decades. I see Maurice's point. Not familiar enough with the exact situation to come to a conclusion, though.
