

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : Coughlin

Date: : 2013/10/1 17:59:25

URL:

Man, I'm all over the place about this. I love furred leaders for the longevity and ease of simply tying on a new tippet. Then I get into a small spot and want something that has a taper that will turn over smooth and easy in a tight loop. Then I just think a knotless leader that I can clip off at the tippet, tie on a surgeon's and keep clipping back simply gets me through a day with little fuss and better accuracy when I'm fishing on top. Sometimes I forget it's just fishing....Jeez, just I write that???? :)

Coughlin