

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : TU Article: At What Price Glory

Re: TU Article: At What Price Glory

Author: : TimRobinsin

Date: : 2013/10/1 23:42:42

URL:

I remember some state college locals telling me years ago that 1 "catch and release" fishermen does more damage than 2 catch and keep guys.

thought being that the catch and keep leave after they hit their limit. the C&R guy just keeps on catching and snapping photos and dumping the fish back in.

I know I have been guilty of it also. I have been really enjoying photographing the fish underwater and the unique shots that you get there. I suppose if I ever caught one worth a grip and grin I would quickly do so if possible but that involves catching a big'n first and thats just not something I do.

Great read and definitely a nod towards the sport returning to that status of being sporting. respecting our resource is paramount to our continued enjoyment and also our heritage past and present. It's something we should try harder to reclaim.