Does anyone know if this map that circulated a while back is still worthwhile? (link below) Or does anyone know who gathered the information that it's based on or when it was gathered? I've visited some of the streams marked and it seems hit or miss. Sometimes I find trout and sometimes all I find are chubs. Maybe it's just my area. Any info would help.

Wrighter,

Definitely worthwhile, but definitely dated. Some of the streams were surveyed years, if not decades ago. The map only shows streams that HAD wild trout presence at one point in the past.

Chances are good the streams still hold WT, but no guarantees. And the reverse, no guarantee the streams omitted do not have wild trout. Also note the results of the latest stream surveys are not reflected on the map.

Use it as a guideline/starting point in your search. Nothing replaces drive time and boots in the water.

Good luck.
