Great article....For the most part I am so concerned with getting the fish back in the water that I do not take photos. My phone has a built in camera, however the only time it comes out of my pocket is to answer someone's call. This article hits home for me where it talks about the 30/60 second results. I try to keep the fish out of the water even less time than that. If family and friends don't believe my catches than they should go fishing with me.
