

---

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : A (partial) antidote for tough conditions - dapping in nooks and crannies

Re: A (partial) antidote for tough conditions - dapping in nooks and crannies

Author: : Six-Gun

Date: : 2013/10/3 1:54:24

URL:

Dapping (or "dappling") is becoming one of my favorite ways to entice a bite, especially when you are in tighter quarters with limited backcast space. It also gives you the flexibility to really work a spot that a dead drift may pass too quickly. More than once, I've dapped a fly over a spot, repeatedly disturbing the water and hooked into a fish that didn't want to bite immediately or simply didn't see the fly right away. Very good technique when other stuff just isn't panning out or, as you said, you want to work over every nook in the stream flow.