Good luck - take some pictures. It's prime time up there and, unless the weather is terrible, there should be plenty of fish around. It's not a bad idea to use spin gear for your first surf fishing trips. You'll get a feel for fishing the surf and the types of lures/baits that work (you'll be surprised how big they are). Blues, stripers, and albies pull mighty hard on spin gear too and it's often easier to get 'em on spin gear from shore when it's crowded and the fish are further out than you can fly cast.

Here's some motivation. This painting depicts the lighthouse looking up from Turtle Cove at the battery that has fallen into the sea. There will likely be more fishermen than this. 😊
