I NEVER put anything on the top, back or bumper of a car. There have been a large number of losses that my friends have incurred this way. If you set anything on your car, such as a fishing rod, put it on the hood, right in front of the driver. This greatly reduces the chances of driving off and losing it.

smg - bumper on the reel, though it still may turn up. Good move to post here - there have been several times the lost and found have matched up.
