Thanks for the info.

I've been checking out a lot of the streams by putting in the drive and hikes. I'm in Southwest PA so I don't expect much from the Creeks I go to. There have been some trout that I've found and the water is always cold enough. I was more or less just asking if anyone knew the specifics of that map at all or where it was originally listed.

The biggest set back I've run into is private land. Driving to some of the creeks I pass miles and miles of valley before ever seeing another house or farm. Alas, the roads are lined with NO TRESPASSING signs. I don't doubt that there could be trout nestled in there or that I could find them, but I wonder if anyone ever actually sees them or catches them. Sure, it's someones property, but how often do you suppose they hike or ride those miles back in there? I wouldn't even know who to ask for access
