

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Fishing in Tap Shoes

Re: Fishing in Tap Shoes

Author: : Six-Gun

Date: : 2013/10/4 14:00:23

URL:

Quote:

boychick wrote:

You're going to spook fish with or without studs. Water is low making fish extra spooky; you probably would have spooked that fish if you were barefoot. Try position yourself to make longer casts when the water is low like this. Get low, think sniper crawl. Cast from your knees. Be concious of where your shadow is. Be the tree...

^^This.

I tried hitting up a small, low and clear run the same day as my Sevier River trip and saw fish spooking WAY before I even got to the bank. The studs and spooking fish are merely coincidence. Use stealth once you get to a castable area and cast as long as is feasible.