got out today. conditions were not the best besides for the fog and clouds. tides were not great and wind was not the best. I wanted to do some exploring in some of the areas the I have been fishing. got there at dead low tide around 2. check out the beach for a little then moved to a spot I found on google maps that looked good. took about five minutes till I got into my first fish. first blue went about 20 the second 22. probably should of put a steel leader on but lost the third. then the incoming tide forced me to move. all in all a good day found some new water and caught some fish cant ask for more.
