

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : Six-Gun

Date: : 2013/10/7 16:15:32

URL:

Thanks Letort/pcray for the info into why certain types of leader build are done the way they are. At the end of the day, I think you guys have convinced me to build or buy a proper leader kit. It's convenient to use the spare mono and fluoro line I have laying about, but there are definitely major differences in suppleness and sink rate going on that could easily be cleared up by using stuff made for the job. I'll have to make due for next week's trip back to PA with what I've already made for now, but when I get back, I'm going to do this right.