

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : ID'ing fish in the water

Re: ID'ing fish in the water

Author: : BrookieChaser

Date: : 2013/10/7 20:34:42

URL:

Suckers have a broader head, usually the body tapers back from the head, you can usually see their mouth, and they stay down in the water column.

If you can clearly see an adipose fin you know it's a trout. For brookies look for the vermiculars and the white tips of the fins. For browns look for the dark markings on a light background. Rainbows look for the stripe.