

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Class A stocking proposal by the PFBC

Re: Class A stocking proposal by the PFBC

Author: : Gorosaurus

Date: : 2013/10/8 11:55:37

URL:

People harp about FFers being a small minority, but then they also clamor about the commission catering to the opening day crowd. These fickle folks who might only fish one day a year-you really think that they are more organized than the enthusiasts? You think they yell louder and more often?

I disagree. What's more- this is not a fly VS. spin argument. This is wild trout enthusiasts versus irresponsible stewardship. The only reasonable argument for the proposed change is a lessened impact on finances short-term (and I argue that that impact is overstated as well).

The healthier we make waterways today the more trout for less cost there will be in the future. It's simple investment economics. If the commission is so concerned about their wallet atrophy, every dollar spent today in the right direction leads to a return without limits in the future.