

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : ID'ing fish in the water

Re: ID'ing fish in the water

Author: : geebee

Date: : 2013/10/8 12:18:03

URL:

That spastic description is spot on - I saw a pod of suckers below the grated bridge on the little Leigh and there were two smallish trout with them doing exactly that.... The suckers were chilling and the browns were constantly spazzing around.

I do find it difficult when there's just 3-4 fish though - like in the frog water at valley creek above the dam.... If its a single fish it's always a trout, but a small pod of different sized fish, I'm never sure til I've got out of water for a better look.

Dave Whitlock (and others) recommend a small pair of binoculars for exactly that.

Atb