You did the right thing. I would have left, unless I was the bigger man, in which case I would have asked for verification of his claims. I'm glad you called PFBC. They are vitally interested in this fishery, and have been working on landowner relationships for years, as have some local groups. Any new posting of access, legitimate or not, should come to their attention.

If this group is unauthorized, they only need 3 days of uncertainty to enjoy a stretch of land to themselves. I would bet they wish they had waited for a better rain event and larger run.
