no signs? then it's not posted. signed signs means it's posted. Barbed wire means it's REALLY posted! sounds fishy to me. not hard to get 10 bucks worth of signs at the hardware if the property really is off limits.

Just to clarify, posted signs do not have to be signed in order to be valid.

I've heard numerous reasons why people think certain signs are not valid, like not signed, not the right height, not the right spacing. Cannot be attached directly to a tree, etc, etc,

All false assumptions. If you see a posted sign, then it is posted.

Not sure how to handle it if someone "claiming" to be the land owner asked me to vacate even if there no signs. I personally would vacate without asking for proof of ownership, and then MAYBE investigate who actually does own it. In most counties that info is available online.
