thanks for confirming the water release vcregular. I heard about that but honestly forgot.

yea, it seems that all I have done in the last two/three years is exploring. some days it is a waste of time and other days very productive.

either way I can't fish the same area over and over again so it is always fun fishing new creeks and trying to catch a couple.

have you guys ever fished the little leghigh? do you like it better?
