Had to run into school today and put it in few hours to defy the Columbus Day holiday:) Hit the Hammer on the way home. Two small wild browns and broke off a third when he wrapped around a rock and was hanging in the current and I tried to move the rock. No brookies today surprisingly. Two other cars there by the time I left. One was a retired guy from Lititz who saw me land a small one at the bridge. Said he didn't fish but somehow I am not so sure. There was also a BMW there and I think it was a flyfisherman down from the bridge. Actually, surprised that someone would stop and fish at a place with two cars already there in the middle of October.
